^Students may opt for project work in lieu of one soft-core course in fourth semester. The project shall consist of a dissertation to be submitted towards the end of the coursework of the IV semester. The theme of the project work shall have to be finalised and approved by the department in third semester and the work could begin in third semester itself. The supervisors shall certify that the submitted dissertation is a work actually carried out by the student.

The total marks for project work will be 100. This would consist of internal assessment for 30 marks and evaluation of project report for 70 marks.

The dissertation should be of minimum of 25 pages and a maximum of 100 pages, excluding the essential documentary pages (i.e., cover page, contents page, certification, acknowledgement, dedication etc.) and the bibliography. It shall be typed on A4 sized sheets, one-sided print in Times Roman 12 point font, double-spaced and have 1" margin on all sides of the page. The dissertation reference/documentation style should conform to APSA/Chicago style specifications (recent edition). However, other styles such as MLA and APA (recent editions), if considered appropriate to the topic, could also be followed by the student in consultation with and prior approval of the supervisor. But any style once chosen should be consistent throughout the dissertation. Dissertations may be spiral-bounded and students should avoid expensive binding. The dissertation not conforming to these stated requirements will be rejected and students may be asked to re-submit their work. Plagiarism of any sort should be avoided and a candidate may be failed if the dissertation is found to contain unacknowledged sources. Wikipedia and commercial notes should be avoided.

 $\sqrt{}$ End semester examination will be of 3 hours' duration for all theory courses (papers) and the total marks for each of the courses will be 100. This would consist of 30 marks of internal assessment and 70 marks for end semester examination.

- √ Open Elective courses are offered to non-Political Science Students (CBCS)
- $\sqrt{\text{All hard-core courses}}$ will have 5 hours, soft core courses 4 hours and open electives 3 hours of teaching/instruction/tutorials per week respectively.
