

Mangalore University
B.A/ B.Sc. Home Science
Semester Scheme

Preamble

The Home Science Syllabus requires regular changes due to the rapidly changing environment. This Syllabus was last revised in 2006 when semester scheme was introduced by Mangalore University for undergraduate courses. The Board of Studies in Home Science decided to modify the existing syllabus to incorporate various modern aspects of Home Science, in order to compete with related professional courses. The practical aspects of textiles, food nutrition, interior decoration and resource management has been given due importance to develop entrepreneurial skills in the students. This would make the students more competitive in the future job market.
