If you are addicted to coffee and doctors warn you to quit the habit don't worry and keep relishing the beverage because it's not that bad after all. In fact according to a new study the steaming cup of Java can beat fruits and vegetables as the primary source of antioxidants. Some studies state that coffee is the number one source of antioxidants in American diet and both caffeinated and decaffeinated version appear to provide similar antioxidant levels.

Antioxidants in general have been linked to a number of potential health benefits, including protection against heart diseases and cancer, but Vinson a dietitian said that their research benefits ultimately depend on how they are absorbed and utilized in the body. The research says that coffee outranks popular antioxidant sources like tea, milk, chocolate and cranberries. Of all foods and beverages studies, dates actually have the most antioxidant based solely on serving size, but since dates are not consumed anywhere near the level of coffee the drink comes as the top source of antioxidants, Vinson said.
